Allies Decline German Labor Suggestions

"BIG FOUR" STICK BY PEACE PACT

CLEMENCEAU REPLIES TO SUGGESTIONS MADE BY ENEMY

SAYS PACT HAS MET OBJECTIONS

Declares Original Terms Answer Protests On Workmen.

BERLIN, Wednesday, May 14.—The Council of Four has declined to consider the note relative to international labor legislation. In a reply sent to the German delegation today, M. Clemenceau says the allied and associated governments have no objection to the principle of the labor question, but that the realization of reforms which the working classes have more than ever a right to expect after the cruel trial to which the world has been subjected, it was impossible to fulfill its terms.

PARIS, Wednesday, May 14.—The Council of Four has declined to consider the note relative to international labor legislation. In a reply sent to the German delegation today, M. Clemenceau says the allied and associated governments have no objection to the principle of the labor question, but that the realization of reforms which the working classes have more than ever a right to expect after the cruel trial to which the world has been subjected, it was impossible to fulfill its terms.

The allied and associated governments take note of the declaration made by the German delegates that domestic peace and the advancement of mankind depend upon the adjustment of the labor question and they are convinced that such adjustment will be rendered easier in the future than in the past, as men's minds are freed from the fear of war and industrial relief of the burden of armaments which German militarism has imposed it.

Details Labor Provisions

Part XIII of the draft of the conditions of peace provided for means by which such adjustments can be made. Article II of this part of the draft lays down the principles which will progressively guide the labor of organization and the rights of nations. Article II indicates clearly that the enumeration of the principles set forth is not exhaustive. The purpose of the labor organization is to promote the economic development of the international labor regime.

The labor convention has been inserted in the treaty of peace and Germany will therefore be called upon to sign it. In the future, the rights of the labor organization will be secured, so that as she is admitted to the league of nations in accordance with article I of the treaty.

It has not been thought necessary to summon a labor conference at Versailles. The conclusions of a syndical conference at Bern, which are reproduced in the draft of the international agreement on labor law referred to in the first paragraph of our letter of the tenth instant, are the closest attention has been given to the preparation of the articles relating to labor.

Labor Unions to be Represented

As appears, moreover, from the annex to section II, the program of the first session of the international labor conference to be held at Washington next October, comprises the most important of the questions raised at the syndical conference at Bern. Trade unions will be invited to take part in that conference and it will be held under direct rules which provide for due effect being given to conclusions reached by the representatives of the competent authorities in the countries represented.

The draft of the international agreement on labor law, which is being prepared by the German government, is deficient in that it makes no provision for the representation of labor at the international conference to be held at Washington next October. The provisions of the annex to part XIII of the peace conditions in the following respects:

Suggests 5 Year Interval

(A) Five years is suggested as a maximum interval between conferences.

(Article VII) The peace conditions, one year. (Article 389).

(B) Each country has one vote. (Article VII) The peace conditions, one year. (Article 389).

(C) Resolutions are only binding if carried by a majority of four-fifths of the voting countries. (Article VII). The peace conditions provide that a majority of two-thirds only of the votes cast shall be necessary for a resolution of the conference. (Article 405).

The allied and associated governments are of the opinion that their decisions give satisfaction to the anxiety which the Germans profess for social justice and insure the working class of reforms which the world has more than ever a right to expect after the cruel trial to which the world has been subjected during the last five years.

(Signed) G. CLEMENCEAU.

An Order of the Day

The following is the "Order of the Day," issued by Brig. Gen. Winans, commanding the 65th brigade, of which Company M was a unit, on October 18, 1918:

SOLDIERS OF THE FRONT LINE, 32nd DIVISION.

A few hundred yards to the north of you the remnants of the decimated crack divisions of the German army are clinging desperately to the pivotal point of their bruised and broken line, on which hangs the fate of their Emperor and the Empire.

The 32nd Division was sent to this sector to shatter that line. You are shock troops, "Les Terribles," the French call you. "Fighting sons o' guns," the Americans call you. You are the very flower of our army. You that remain up there on the front have been tried by fire. The skulkers have skulked—the quitters have quit. Only men remain.

Machine guns? You have captured thousands of them. And you took them standing up. The only way to take machine guns is to take them. No use lying down on the ground. They have plenty of ammunition and they aim low. Shells? Shell casualties are only three percent of the total.

Tired? You have been in the line two weeks. Your enemies have been in five weeks, prisoners say they have gone thru hell.

The 32nd Division is going ahead when the 1st American Army attacks. We're three regiments abreast, with one in support. Each echelon in depth. One battalion behind the other, except the one on the extreme right, that one mops up Romagne, the other go forward. This formation will give you driving power.

The Americans must succeed. It is not enough to say "I'll try."

Your resolve must be "I Will!"

WINANS, Brigadier General.

SIX BOOTLEGGERS IN TOILS OF U. S. AGENTS

Six alleged bootleggers, men who it is claimed have been reaping a good living by selling liquor to soldiers were taken into custody by operatives of the department of justice, working in conjunction with Sheriff Fred Beley, last Saturday evening. Three negroes, two white men and one Indian were arrested.

The men taken were Lowry, a negro employed at a local barber shop, Ike Wilson, employed at a local hotel, Ed. Davis of Beloit, E. Engleke, employed at a pool hall, Kirby of Woodland and Indian Joe Sloan. Lowry and Kirby did not give any surnames or initials when arrested. All of the men were discharged soldiers, is alleged, and have been selling liquor to soldiers for many weeks, charging as high as $4 a pint for whiskey.

Sheriff Gives Aid

Sheriff Fred Beley and two members of the department of justice conducted the roundup Saturday evening but no reports of the arrests were made until this morning. The men have all been taken before the United States Court, Commissioner Kirby of Beloit, the exception of E. Engleke, who is out on $1000 bail. They have been taken to Madison where they will be confined to the Dane county jail pending their trials in the federal court.

"Morally Janesville was worse than it was before we conducted the first roundup here several months ago," said Sheriff Beley. He told of the boldness of the bootleggers in accosting the soldiers and asking them to purchase liquor. He stated that it had been absolutely no trouble for a Klunk clad man to secure all the whiskey he desired in this city.

"Bootlegging must stop and everything possible will be done to arrest the men who are earning their living selling liquor to soldiers," Sheriff Fred Beley said. Sheriff Beley was particularly active in the recent roundup and he stated this morning that the bootleggers were men selling liquor to soldiers and sailors must stop.

RECALLS INVITATION TO IRISH DELEGATES

London, Wednesday, May 14.—Andrew Bonar Law admitted today that Premier Lloyd-George had asked Frank P. Walsh, Edward F. Dunne, and Michael P. Ryan, representatives of Irish soldiers in the United States to call on him. He had planned to lay before them the British case and have it widely reported in America, where it is insufficiently understood, Mr. Bonar Law said.

The premier has withdrawn the invitation, the government leader said, because while he is willing to receive Americans, he is unwilling to receive Irishmen, who are in Ireland and not only take part in the politics of Ireland, but also in rebellious movements.

Marry For Love? Royal Soms Scarce

Will the spread of democracy in Europe insure to these daughters of the Italian king, who under the old order would have been obliged to marry for reasons of state, an opportunity to marry for love? Sons of reigning monarchs are getting so scarce in Europe that it will not be easy, for Italy's royal mama to find one for each of her charming daughters.

Red Arrow heroes, members of Company M, will tread on flower strewn streets when they reach home, according to plans made today by the welcoming committee. Every woman and girl in Janesville and Rock county is invited to bring baskets of flowers to be strewn before the returning fighters as they make their triumphal entry into this city. Those who have flowers will be given places in the front lines of the thousands who will line the streets to greet the boys. The committee has suggested that preparations for gathering these flowers be made at once so that when the welcome sound, tolling of the return of the soldiers, everyone will be ready.

Janesville is on tiptoe, awaiting the arrival of the boys who won glory on the fields of France. Since the war has been given the Company M members as soon as it is telephoned that they probably will reach Camp Grant some time this evening, the whole city has been preparing for the welcome. When the "Les Terribles" march up Milwaukee and Main streets to Court House Park the streets will be one blaze of color.

Those living in nearby communities will be given information concerning the probable arrival of the soldiers so that they may be on hand when the parade is started. The Gazette will send information to the telephone exchange as to the time when the parade will start. It is estimated that thousands from all parts of the county will be present when the boys march into the city. The parade will start at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and will last about an hour. The men will be marching in the order of their companies. The parade will be a great success.

THE BAR-RED ARROW

In November, 1918, when instructions were received that each division in the A. E. F. should choose a distinguishing mark, it was thought that the red circle no longer typified the character of the 32nd division. It had shown by the part taken in the actions in the Chateau Thierry sector, on the Juvigny-Soissons front, as well as in its fighting in the Argonne Forest and on the Meuse that the soldiers of the 32nd Division did not run in circles but shot through all obstacles.

The troops of the division on many occasions formed a flying wedge launched against the German lines and this fact led to the selection of the arrow as its symbol. The commanding general of the division, when asked why he had chosen the Barred Arrow as the distinguishing mark of the division said, "I chose the barred arrow as the division symbol because we pierce every line the Boche put before us."

The machine owners are asked to hold themselves in readiness to respond the minute the call is sent out. Plans now are based on the men being discharged Saturday. High school students are being asked to assist in the decorating of the downtown streets. Every lamp post will be draped and huge banners and flags will float from every building. The decorating has already started and will continue until every available inch has been decorated. Red Arrows to be cut out and pasted on the windows of automobiles and the obelisks of the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow.

Janesville is going to welcome the members of Company M, one of the greatest fighting units in the recent war. Every resident of the city is anxiously waiting for the whistles which will announce that the men have started for Janesville.

Big Demonstration

Every city in Wisconsin which is represented in the Third regiment will be taking part in a monster rip-roaring demonstration the day the boys get home.

Janesville went wild the day the boys passed through. The route to Camp Grant through the city was a demonstration of the day the army was signed, but the day the boys return home, after looking the history of Janesville, according to predictions, will be the wildest day in the history of Janesville.

Complete information concerning the men and their movements will be furnished by the Gazette of the names of the soldiers who arrive at Grant will be published tomorrow afternoon.

Madison, May 15.—A production of 2,223,000 bushels of winter wheat in Wisconsin is forecast by Joseph A. Becker, of the Wisconsin Cooperative Crop Reporting service on the basis of a condition on May 1 of 95 percent of normal. This is an increase since April 1, when a condition of 89 gave promise of a production of 2,100,000 bushels. A year ago, May 1, 1918, the condition was 85 percent, compared with 86 percent in 1918 and 87 percent. The total production in 1918 was 1,276,000 bushels.

The area of wheat abandoned is estimated at 2 percent, the lowest in many years. The acreage remaining to be harvested is 1,010,000 acres. The percentage of abandonment last year was 45 percent.

Coblentz, May 15.—Nine hundred and thirty-one officers and enlisted men of the third United States army have been assessed approximately $7,000 for the loss of 3,175 bottles of champagne which disappeared near Toul last December. Findings of an army board were announced recently.

While a number of French soldiers were also involved, testimony did not bring out just who discovered the freight car loaded with wine nor who were the first individuals to start handing out the bottles.

Three majors, 15 captains, 32 first lieutenants, 174 second lieutenants, and 447 enlisted men were involved.

EDITH CAVELL IS PAID HOMAGE IN ENGLAND

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, May 15.—England paid tribute to Edith Cavell, the English nurse executed by the Germans at Brussels October 21, 1915, here, today when her body, enroute from Brussels to her native city of Norwich, was taken to Westminster Abbey for an impressive memorial service.

It was a public funeral in which it seemed every resident of the great metropolis endeavored to participate. The streets through which the cortege moved were congested with crowds. Every inch of standing room in the neighborhood of the abbey was occupied by a densely massed multitude which was eager to do homage to "that brave woman" as the bishop of London described her, who deserves a great deal from the British empire.

The congregation at the abbey included high officials of the government, representatives of foreign consulates and men prominent in many walks of life.

King George was represented by the Earl of Athlone.

The service was conducted by the Dean of Westminster.

The service which began at noon, lasted half an hour.

On the coffin was the simple inscription: Edith Cavell.

Born December 4, 1865. Died October 12, 1915.

At Norwich, it was placed on a gun carriage and was taken to Norwich cathedral. The service which was officially designated "for the funeral of Edith Cavell, a nurse who gave her life for her countrymen" followed.

The funeral party which accompanied the body from Brussels to Norwich included eight members of Miss Cavell's family and prominent British and Belgian officials.

SPRING BRIDES ARE BEGINNING TO CALL ON MODISTES

That very happy group of maidens who are about to "take the step" this June or perhaps in May are now busily engaged with the fashionable modiste or else they are haunting the exclusive shops for the purpose of completing their trousseaux. Here are three things every bride will want whether she prefers just this style or not is a question and some may not care for the veil, but the frock and negligee are two quite prominent garments of even the most simple trousseau. The gown pictured here is made of wide silk lace with inserts of chiffon and a petticoat of chiffon with still another one underneath. It is suitable for the morning, afternoon or early evening ceremony and with a lower decolletage and perhaps a train and no sleeves it would be suitable for a very large and pretentious evening wedding.

The dainty negligee at the left is gorgeously crepe and lace. It is fresh colored with ribbons of orchid and blue.

LIBRARIES HAVE JOBS
BECKONING TO WOMEN

Want a job? Here is one line of work just begging for women to heed its call. Libraries are full of books but somewhat empty of librarians. Along with the teachers' training school comes the library school, offering unusual opportunities for business careers, to women particularly.

Come and take care of the book-worms in the call. The law proved that librarians possessed a special preparation which fitted them for reliable positions in federal departments, business houses, and emergency war work of an advanced order. This demand, which could be only partially supplied, left public libraries with diminished staffs.

The Wisconsin library school of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, during 14 months received 339 requests for workers to fill vacancies in the following positions: Librarians for public libraries; librarians for county, college, normal school and high school libraries; librarians for cataloguing and lending departments; librarians for business, municipal, newspaper, hospital, agricultural and other special libraries; and for assistants in these same libraries and departments.

This recognition of library training and the demand for it has brought a consequent increase in salary. It seems probable that this increased demand for trained librarians will continue.

EXAMINE WOMAN TO TEST SANITY

Mrs. Helen Bradley today is occupying the women's compartment in the city hall lockup for the fourth time in six days. Indications this morning were that the police department would at last be rid of this trouble to them for over a week as proceedings to have the woman examined as to her sanity were taking form today.

The police believe her mentally unbalanced. They have had good opportunity to observe her for during the six days past she was away from the city hall but a few hours altogether.

Monday the woman was taken into custody of the solicitor of department of justice officials. She was later released when it was determined that Janesville was outside the health and liquor zone belling the cantonment at Rockford.

Writes Will Under Fire Two Days Before Death

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS)

Beginning the will Mierzowski wrote: "We are in such a place that my head is nearly split with bombardment."

He enclosed an insurance card and cautioned his mother to keep the will until he did not come back then you will get $5,000."

The court disallowed the will because of technicality. The mother, Mary Mierzowski, will, however, receive the insurance by regular payments.

Ice $5.25 Now; Will Be Higher

Hats off.
But not to the Ice man, whom this story concerns.

Janeville will pay dear for the solidified H2O the coming season. There is reason.

Said reason is found in the very little winter which passed these parts during that season called winter.

Ice houses here were not filled but a small supply was possible of cutting. Even then the thickness was small.

At present the surplus from the winter remains in storage for the warm months. Manufactured ice is received daily by the carload. The river ice is better for the warm weather as it lasts much longer.

Today's ice costs $5.25. Last year in May it was an even $4.

The present price will not last, ice men declare. The price will go higher and at once.

To date there is no real decision for the erecting of an ice manufacturing plant in the city. Several business men have considered the idea but no definite action has resulted.

Filipino, "Freshie," Asks Police Protection Against Hazing Seniors

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS)
Lawrence, Kan., May 15.—Jose V. Cajucum, a Filipino freshman at the University of Kansas here, wants his pants. He also wants the money that was in the pockets and revenge on the students who way clipped the hair of one half of his head, before taking his trousers.

Cajucum is the first victim of the "red vigils," a secret organization of the University of Kansas to enforce student conference regulations. His offense was refusal to wear the skull cap prescribed for all freshmen.

When informed of the matter by the "red vigils" of his offense he said to have taken the letter to the Lawrence chief of police and asked for protection. The chief is said to have advised him to comply with the student regulations, as the police had no jurisdiction.

Disregarding the first warning, Cajucum was "penalized." He was taken to the lawrence conference monastery, where after his trousers were removed and head shaved, he was left to shift for himself.

Jail Birds' Jazz Covers Noise of Freedom Flirting

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS)
Springfield, Ill., May 15.—Prisoners in the county jail felt indolent. The noise of freedom was becoming more than they could stand. Suddenly jail attendants heard the plinking of a guitar from within. A mouth harp also blared forth. To this was added vocal selections, including a rousing march.

The prisoners sought to break the monotony of jail life by this diversion. But after the music developed into a racket and continued so it began to grate on the ears of the sheriff. He made an investigation and found the hubbub was designed to cover the machinations of fellow inmates who were assiduously occupied in prying loose several boards preparatory to jail delivery.

Bootlegging From Stocking is One of Latest Stunts

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS)
Sioux City, Iowa, May 15.—"Bootlegging from the hip," and "bootlegging from the pocket," long in vogue here, are now being replaced by a new stunt among the feminine bootleggers—is "bootlegging from the stocking." This new method was brought to light by police patrolman Mrs. Sadie Smith, following the arrest of Mrs. and Mrs. John Kraft. The two owners of a hotel, were suspected of bootlegging and, after a raid, in which 39 quarts of booze were found in their house, brought to the city prison.

When Mrs. Smith searched Mrs. Kraft, she found a half pint of liquor tied with a pink ribbon to the top of Mrs. Kraft's stocking. Mrs. Kraft drew the bottle out of the stocking and in an effort to destroy the evidence, but it hit a pile of cinders and did not break. It will be used as evidence at the trial.

PEACE—and WAR

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Germany has met with another rebuff from the Council of Four in the peace negotiations at Versailles.

The plenipotentiaries at Versailles are making to secure alterations in the peace treaty by setting forth objections to the terms of the treaty.

The note sent by the Germans regarding international labor legislation. The council's belief that the terms of the treaty meet the objects of the Germans profess to desire to set forth, and the defects in the German plan are pointed out.

Vigorous measures that will be an immediate result of a refusal of the Germans to sign the peace treaty have been planned by the council. Marshal Foch, commander-in-chief of the allied armies, is on the Rhine front and dispatches that he will take such action as is necessary in the event of the failure of the enemy to sign the treaty.

An immediate economic blockade of Germany also is planned as a part of the program in case continued hostile action against the enemy is considered necessary.

The Austrian peace mission is at St. Germain-Laye, near Paris, having arrived Wednesday night.

The Adriatic question, which has so important a bearing on the Austro-Serbian treaty, has not yet been decided and may serve to delay the presentation of the terms.

Meanwhile there are reports that strong Italian forces have been landed at the port of Zara and Sebenico on the Dalmatian coast between Fiume and Spalato. These forces are said to have moved inland and to be fortifying strategic points.

Eagles' Notice: Regular meeting will be held tonight. All members are requested to be present. A large class will be initiated. H. M. Handy, secretary.

BALLOON FINISHES FLIGHT O. K.; N. C. 4 ON WAY TO TREPASSEY

He gave credit for completion of the voyage largely to Lieut. Campbell and Lieut. J. V. Lawrence, both of whom he said, were weary, "and almost seasick" but stuck to their posts.

"We made a land fall at St. Pierre, but found ourselves on the west instead of the east shore of the Placentia Bay," said the commander.

"From this point we attempted to follow the cruiser Chicago's radio directions but they did not work. For the moment we were lost. We started 'cross land' about 10 o'clock of New Foundland, and I must say this is the doggondest island to find anything on I ever struck. Eventually we hit the railroad track and followed it to St. John's, which we entered and continued on to St. John's.

"There was considerable fog but it did not trouble us."

Although reports received here indicated that the American naval seaplanes might start this evening on their trans-Atlantic flight, Hawker and Raynham, the British fliers, announced that unfavorable weather would prevent their "hop off" today.

ELKS WILL ASSIST IN COUNTY DRIVE

The local Elks' lodge last night took the initial steps for the organization of a campaign to raise part of Rock county's share for the Salvation Army home service fund. The quota for Rock county is $23,000, a sum of amount Janesville and the northern portion of the county will raise half. Beloit and the southern part of the county will raise the other part.

J. H. Sullivan, exalted ruler of the local lodge, and H. D. Murdoch, secretary, accompanied by W. B. Pillsbury, state manager of the campaign, visited the Elks' lodge yesterday afternoon to get details of co-operation in the drive. Beloit voted unanimously to sponsor the drive which will start June 20 and end July 6.

Details of the campaign will be arranged at a meeting to be held next week when committees will be appointed.

Raise in Raisin is All Tommyrot, Says Expert

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, May 15.—The latest iconoclast to get busy taking the joy out of life is one Felix Mendelssohn, who is arranging a beverage exhibition to be held here this fall.

According to Mendelssohn, the "wets" have been expecting too much of the raisin. That is, they have over-estimated its ability.

"It contains," says Mendelssohn, "no necessary whorly. It can change water into wine—or grape juice into sparkling burgundy."

"It can't be done," explains Mendelssohn. "It will be asking too much of the raisin. Those who are planning their faith on the rasp when the country goes dry might just as well look elsewhere for a substitute with a kick. You can experiment with cucumbers and raising until the end of the chapter—but it can't be done."

A feature of the exposition will be a soda clerk's beauty contest, with the school girls acting as judges. A prize will be given to the ex-bartender concocting the best nut sundae, it is announced.

Spank Boys Publicly for Throwing Stones

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS)
Elvira, Ohio, May 15.—"We are going to have a public spanking and I want volunteers," said Judge Duffy in court today. "Who will volunteer?" Every husky in the employ of the city shut up his hand. The victims were three small boys who had hurled stones at a troop train and had his railroad driver threaten their parents agreed to the spanking ordered by the court. The "spankers" are to be drafted.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., May 15.—Delay which may make it impossible to complete the jury in the Ford-Tribune case today was encountered in Judge Tucker's court this morning.

News Notes from Movieland
By DAISY DEAN

Mr. and Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa on the veranda of their luxurious home in Hollywood.

The film colony at Hollywood had a much more fitting celebration for May day than many of the cities where Bolsheviks did the celebrating. It was the fifth wedding anniversary of the Sessue Hayakawas. One could just imagine that this talented couple from the land of Cherry Blossoms would choose May day for their wedding ceremony.

Upon this fifth anniversary they held a large dance at their home and right here it may be mentioned that they are among the most popular couples in the entire film colony. Their luncheons, dinners and all their social affairs are always looked forward to with great delight by the rest of the actor folk.

Their anniversary dance started early in the evening and ended at a rather late hour the next morning. Mr. Hayakawa disregarded the fact that the fifth anniversary was the "wooden" one by giving Tsuru Aoki, his wife, a gorgeous diamond and platinum hair pin.

The Wallace Reids, the William Desmond, the William Parsons, Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson, Rhea Mitchell, Peggy Hagar, Nell Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacDonald and Jack Abbe were a few of those present.

HAVE YOU SEEN THEM ALL?

The forthcoming Lyons-Moran comedy, which has been given the title "Have They Xed?" is the 25th production made by these two filmmakers of the films. Although the two men themselves are the real fun-makers of the comedies a good bit of the success of the comedies is due to the excellent supporting cast used.

THE WISHING PLANE
WILLIS

Captain Bold and Ladydear and Jane left the men fixing the submarine and started to walk around the island, which they had bumped against in the storm.

The whole island was nothing but giant rocks that made big caves, little narrow roadways and large flat places. Jane and her friends were so interested in exploring the queer places of the island they didn't know they had walked miles and miles.

In one place they found a little house all broken down by the wind.

You Will Soon Know
All About
THE RED LANTERN

had told Jane all about it many times.

"Oh I wish Jack was here to see the house," said Jane, which made Captain Bold and Ladydear wonder again where Jack and Captain Brave were, and whether or not they had arrived in Beautiful Island safely.

It was getting late, so Captain Bold climbed to the top of one of the trees to find out which way they were from the submarine.

They were nearer to it than he thought. Captain Bold saw something else from his place high in the tree, but didn't say anything about it.

He started to lead them back to the submarine. It was beginning to get dark so Captain Bold made them hurry. Jane and Ladydear were getting awfully tired, but in a couple of minutes they forgot all about their tiredness, for Captain Bold led them around a big wall of rock, right plump into Captain Brave and Jack.

Well, everybody was too surprised to say anything for a minute or two.

"How did you get here?" asked Jane of Jack.

"And how did you get here?" asked Jack.

Then Jane and Ladydear told Captain Brave and Jack how they had bumped into the island in the submarine during the storm and were waiting for it to be fixed, and Jack told how he and Captain Brave had searched the ocean for Captain Bold's submarine and had landed on the other side of the island to fix the airplane and wait for the wind to die down.

So they all walked back to the submarine and made plans to start for Beautiful Island the next day.

A CHANCE TO LIVE

MORE WORK FOR ANNIE.

Annie's one delight was the silk remnant counter. Bright lengths of fabric were piled here in a glory of richness. Annie feasted her eyes on them, playing a game with herself of "Which would you choose if you could have any one you want?" She made herself in imagination gorgeous frocks.

She dressed her whole family. This maroon silk for Aunt Maggie. The mauve with white figures for mother. The pink-and-green stripe for six-year-old sister. The blue velvet for four-year-old brother.

Back in the old days, when Annie and Aunt Maggie went walking on a moonlight street, Annie thought working in a big department store must be the greatest fun in the world. Seeing and handling all those beautiful things, watching the people, hearing the ladies talk over which satin to buy, which hat became their best, and whether the cardroom or cashmere coat would wear better for the baby? It never once entered her mind that it must be hard work to be a cash girl. Now she knew.

"But I won't be very long," she mused, thinking of her copybook maxims and her father's assurances. "Some day I'll be buying silk, like those ladies. And I'll pick out the prettiest patterns—not like the one woman over there. Ooooh, what a lovely purple that is! And those thick stripes! Why doesn't she take the green with the little dots? Some day I'll—"

"Here, you!" a stern voice broke into Annie's reverie. "Can't you hear nothing? The girls' been yelling 'cash' for ten minutes, and you're 'here starin'! Keep your eyes on the job, or you'll get the sack. Now, hurry!"

Annie jumped, and hurried. She said whenever there was room enough. It was easier on her feet. All the girls on their sore soles, and more speed. But once in a while you bumped into a customer and your hand and then you got an awful cutting down from the lady usher.

"The goods this particular customer had bought—Annie never forgot—was a white material, thin, white, cross-hatched stuff—was put into her hands along with the 'book.' In the book was a half dollar. There was to be three cents in change. Annie made a dash for the cashier. She skidded around a corner, collided with a woman who had suddenly stopped before a 'bargain sale,' and dropped the book. The half dollar rolled out, rolled away out of sight.

Annie began to hunt. The woman she had bumped helped her. Other customers did the same. No one could find it. The woman floorwalker came and asked what the trouble was. Then she, too, started to look for the lost coin. It was not found.

The floorwalker looked at Annie—just one look—and her throat dried. "Come along with me," she said in a low tone, leading the way to the cashier's desk. Annie breathed hard, but did not cry. The cashier's eyes looked after her. One said, "Poor kid—I guess they will dock her for it."

The floorwoman made out a slip, signed it, got the parcel wrapped and the three pennies change. Then, when all had been right with the customer, the floorwalker took Annie's arm firmly and said in a low but vigorous tone, "You're fired. Got your money to-night when the store closes and don't come back. You're a careless little girl. You're sitting staring when they're yelling their lungs out calling 'cash!' And then you lose money. You'll never do." And she moved off, presenting a dignified mien and smiling face to the patrons.

It did because it meant fewer steps

Knitting needles have been dropped and crochet hooks taken up and the result is a new mode—the sweater world—the 'flet' sweater. These sweaters made quite a furor at Palm Beach and now every sweater department is showing the new flet sweater. This one is royal purple with a fleur-de-lis pattern.

By ELOISE.

Now that the balmy days are here the charm of country life beckons us and we become more and more interested in week-end trips. The wardrobe for the out-of-town visit is an important item, and one of the most important articles is the sweater. Last year one took knitting needles along on the trip and came back with a new sweater or at least a good start on one.

This year the knitting needles have been dropped and crochet hooks are the thing. The result is a new mode in the sweater world—the 'flet' sweater. These sweaters made quite a furor at Palm Beach and now every sweater department is showing the new flet sweater.

If you have not already made the acquaintance of a 'flet' sweater, do not introduce you to its charm of detail. The slip-over is the popular model, and the lower edge is crocheted to make a wide band, perceptible to the eye. Usually the sides of the sweater are left open the width of the banding, to allow a more graceful line over the hips. And, if you are an expert at lace making, work in a motif part, which, you understand, is entirely of a rather open square mesh.

The colors of these sweaters are quite a matter of personal fancy, though the lighter tones seem more attractive, as the contrast of the blouse showing through the mesh is not so decided. To my mind beige, pale yellow or gray are very lovely, though over popular is rose and the various violet shades. If by chance you find white is needed for becoming, make you color from white wool, but of a design in keeping with the motif used in the rest of your sweater.

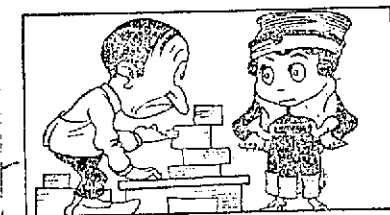

This smart one which was snapped on the board walk at Atlantic City is a real 'flet' with a fleur-de-lis design. It is worn over a white crepe de chine blouse and a plaid skirt of white with a purple diamond pattern. A purple and white hat completes the color scheme.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

ABNORMAL MUSCLE AND OBESITY

The only sensations a normal individual refers to his stomach are hunger, appetite and the sense of repletion or disagreeable fullness following a meal.

These sensations guide the individual in the selection of the quantity of food taken. If not checked by artificial interference the sensations of hunger, appetite and repletion will constantly maintain the body weight at normal. How rarely do we see a bird or animal not in captivity grow in obese or emaciated. Yet a normally nourished civilized human adult is as rare as a decent day in June. We are nearly all too skinny or too stout. This is because we insist on artificially thrusting a monkey wrench into the delicate adjustment of sensations that keeps us normally nourished. Condiments, sauces and very especially the narcotic irritant, alcohol, flavored with something that masquerades as medicine, the wonder is that a normally nourished civilized human adult ever does turn up to save sore eyes.

The regular intake of even a slight excess of food, over the actual needs of the body will in time produce a distinct increase in weight. Anyone who will add to his present daily ration one slice of bread with butter and sugar on, or a glass of milk with bread and butter, at bedtime, may come in weight in a year. Or by cutting the ration down to a similar degree the weight will fall 20 pounds in a year.

As I have so often insisted here, it is immaterial what the condition, age or circumstances may be, the individual who is overweight has only himself to blame, for either an excessive intake of nourishment (overeating) or an insufficient output of energy (insufficient exercise) or both combined is responsible—and nothing else in the world is responsible for obesity.

The sense of repletion that develops in the course of a meal is probably due largely to increase of tension or pressure within the abdomen. To increase this tension artificially and you will increase the amount of food eaten. To decrease this tension artificially and you will decrease the amount of food eaten.

The immediate effect of tight lacing is to increase intra-abdominal tension and decrease the amount of food eaten. The permanent effect is just the reverse, for atrophy and weakening of the abdominal muscles is necessary to maintain the tension, and early means decreased tension, and the midriff corpulence of mature women.

The gain in weight that frequently succeeds childhood is largely attributable to abdominal muscle atrophy and weakening and consequent decreased tension.

If you find yourself growing a "high stomach," a paunch, keep busy training those flabby abdominal muscles.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Ether or Local Anesthetic?
A throat specialist advises removal of my tonsils while under ether. Would you advise ether or cocaine as the anesthetic for such an operation? (G. L. S.)

ANSWER—Yes, whichever the operator might deem preferable.

Let Alone Policy Indicated.
Please tell me what to do with the breasts of a baby boy one month old. They swell up from the formation of milk. The nurse who took care of me told she always forced the milk out of a baby boy's breast. Could that have caused it? (Mrs. B. L. E.)

ANSWER—Slight milk secretion in the breast of a newborn baby is so common that it may be considered physiological, and it calls for a rigid let alone policy.

Embargo on Symptoms

Dr. Brady begs to remind readers that he will under no circumstances give the symptoms of any disease by mail or in this column. This department is intended to teach people how to keep well, and stating symptoms would be doing injury to many.

THE YOUNG OLD WOMAN

In the old days there used to be styles for younger women and distinct styles for older women. How times have changed!

I was strongly impressed by this obvious fact the other day when I sat waiting for a friend in the misses' frock department of a certain shop and witnessed an interesting little scene. A young girl of perhaps 20 had come into the department to try on a frock. She tried on a very jaunty little affair in the latest shade of bright blue. It did not exactly suit her for some reason and she was about to lay it aside when the mother said, "Let me try that, I like the color." She tried it on, preened herself before the mirror, and eventually bought it. Now, can you imagine that happening, say twenty years ago?

I can't.

Doesn't She Sometimes Keep Herself Too Young?

There has been a great deal said in the last few years about the wonderful way in which the woman of today keeps herself young. The twentieth century grandmother's refusal to wear bonnets or caps or any of the old time badges of grandmotherhood has been highly commended. I sometimes think this commendation has gone too far.

Perhaps when I am 55 or 60 I shall feel differently about it. But at the present I must say that to me a woman whose style of dress and manner changes somewhat with the years is far more beautiful than the woman who dresses and acts at 35 or 40 as 20 or 25 or 30.

She Is Chasing a Will O' the Wisp, I Think.

I suppose when a woman of mature years dresses in the bright colors and advanced styles of youth she is trying to make herself more attractive, subconsciously pursuing an ideal of beauty. But fitness is the first element of beauty, and when you have no fitness you haven't even the foundation of beauty.

There are so many lovely things older women can wear that I do not see why they covet the colors and lines that are more suitable to youth. Is there anything lovelier for the older woman with gray or white hair than womanly gray or lavender or all white, or, if she has fresh enough color and good enough line to wear it, the exquisiteness of all black with just the relief of a plain white collar or ruche? How such a woman rests our eyes. What a sense of dignity and harmony and the eternal fitness of things she gives us. I am sure when the Lord made silver gray and lavender he thought of older folks.

Tint Undignified Clutching at Youth.

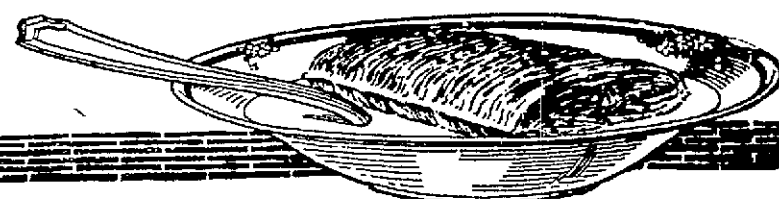

Of course I like to see both men and women keep the fresh clear skin of youth so long as they can, and of course I like to see them keep in their hearts the spirit of youth, but I hate to see that undignified clutching at youth which expresses itself in clothes and manner that do not harmonize with one's years.

Middle age and old age are so beautiful when they are willing to be themselves. In spite of its overuse the phrase "growing old gracefully."

THE GIRL WHO HAD NO GOD

There had never been any drinking in old Hilary's house. Only abstainers were ever taken into the band. But it was the custom of the two older men to remain at the table over their cigars, giving Walter and Elinor a half-hour together. That night, when Elinor rose from the table, Huff, although he rose with the others, made no move to follow her. She looked back from the doorway, a slim, almost childish figure, with beseeching eyes.

"You must all try to think kindly of me," she said wistfully. "I care for you as much as I ever did. You are all I have, you three. It is only that I have been thinking."

For the first time since the organization of the band, there was quarreling that night in old Hilary's paneled library. At the end of an hour Walter Huff hung out of the door, white with fury. He stumbled through the garden toward the garage, muttering as he went. In the rose alley he met Elinor.

"I was waiting for you," she said simply.

Huff stood before her, and the anger left his face.

"You're the one thing in all the world I felt sure of." His voice was heavy with despair.

"I've been thinking about Boro-day."

"Elinor, how far have things gone between you and this man at St. Jude's?"

She recoiled.

"I hardly know him."

"You think about him."

She looked down into the valley.

"I think of the things he stands for. It just seems to me that, when a man like that, not a dreamer at all, but human and—kind, when he believes all that he does—"

"It was Ward on the ridge-pole, the one who nearly fell?"

"Yes."

"And you were frightened?"

"It made me sick. I—"

Quite suddenly he crushed her to him. It was as if he meant to drive away this barrier between them by sheer force of his love for her. But, although she held up her face for his kiss, he released her as suddenly, without it.

"You're crazy about him," he said thickly. "I'm not blind. I'll get him for this!"

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

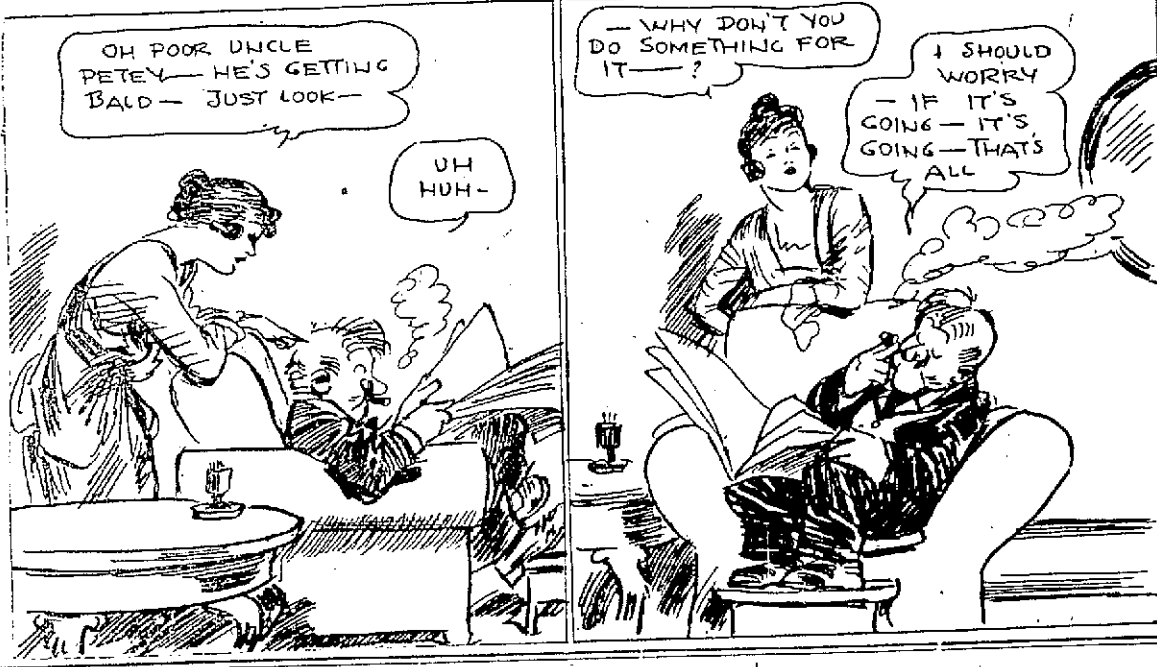

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for cathartics, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

PETEY DINK—THE GOAT CHANGES HANDS IN A HURRY.

CHAPTER VIII.

Saturday evening it was the custom of the Bryants to entertain the rector at dinner.

Now, in his absence, it was the assistant rector who dined in the paneled Jacobean dining room of the Bryant house, swallowing much unctuous dictation as to church policy with his dinner.

Not that Ward was mild. But he had an easy way of listening to the advice of his various influential parishioners and then going ahead and doing as he liked. In nonessentials he always yielded. To him the church was so much bigger than his ritual.

That evening Mrs. Bryant had taken up the question of women in the choir.

"Frankly, Mr. Ward," she said, ignoring her fish, "I do not approve of it. It's the feminist movement, I tell you. Before long they'll want to be on the vestry."

Ward glanced up, half smiling. The pear-shaped pearl, which usually hung at his hostess's withered throat, was, naturally, not there. From the pearl to the parish house, from the parish house to Elinor—thus in two leaps of Ward's mind he was far from the subject in hand.

"As president of the Chancel society," said Mrs. Bryant, "as honorary president of the Woman's guild, I protest against women in the choir."

Back to the choir with a jump came Ward's earnest mind.

"I wonder," Ward reflected, "whether or a matter of tradition and custom will prevent women from singing in the heavenly choir?"

Mrs. Bryant snatched at her fish. But she had not finished. There were many things about Saint Jude's that did not please her. The burial of old Hilary Kingston had been one. She seized on that.

"A non-communicant," she snapped. "An infidel, an atheist! The daughter is living alone up there at this minute. It isn't respectable. It's a bad example to the girls in the village. The house is full of men all the time."

"That must be a mistake."

"It is quite true. Servants talk, you know. What can you expect? Raised out of the church, with no belief, and, of course, no moral instruction."

Ward bent forward over the table.

"That is a very serious statement, Mrs. Bryant. His eyes were like steel. 'Of course you are not basing it merely on what you hear from servants.'"

Mrs. Bryant flushed, a purplish spot in the center of each sagging cheek.

"I do not gossip with the servants," she said, shortly. "It is common talk. And there are other things. Machines come and go from the house at queer hours of the night. The girl spends a great deal of money. Where does she get it? Where, for that matter, did old Hilary Kingston get it?"

Thus challenged, Ward had nothing to say.

After dinner he left early, but he did not go home. He went up the hill. As he strode on, he remembered many things. The girl was without the sheet-anchor of any belief, adrift and alone, and he had made no attempt to help her unbelief. Although it was after ten, the house was still lighted downstairs, and he went without hesitation into the garden.

Thus it happened that he saw Elinor in Huff's arms, saw him thrust her violently from him, and rush away across the flower-beds, leaving her there alone.

Ward remained in the shadows. To save his life he could not have spoken to Elinor then. Under his constrained exterior he was in the thrall of the fiercest jealousy. This little fair-haired girl, to whom his God was no God, had taken a powerful hold on him.

Elinor, who slept little that night, saw the light in his window until it faded into the dawn.

Elinor went to the early communion the following day. The church was dark. There were hardly two dozen people scattered over the building. She sat far back and was heavily veiled. When the congregation knelt, she knelt. An old woman in the next pew gave her the prayer book open at the service. On her knees then went Elinor and listened to Ward's fine voice echoing through the empty building.

The morning was warm and the windows open. The odor of burned wood from the parish house crept in.

"Thou shalt not steal," Ward read from the Decalogue, and the people said:

"Lord have mercy upon us and incline our hearts to keep this law."

"Thou shalt not steal."

In the palm of her left glove Elinor had the Bryant pear-shaped pearl.

Ward had not seen her. He went through the service reverently, with an impressiveness of voice and bearing that showed how real it was to him. And in his voice, reading, exhorting, commanding, there were tender notes that caught Elinor's breath in her throat.

When the service was over, she rose from her knees and dropped the Bryant pearl into the alms-box by the door. The congregation, small and scattered, was still kneeling. The doorway and the alms-box were in twilight.

Drawing down her veil, she went quickly out into the sunshine.

At the eleven o'clock service Ward announced the burning of the parish building.

"It is not my intention to make an appeal," he said simply. "The parish house was built to fill a great need; that need still exists. If our church is to be an element in the daily lives of the people of this town, we must have a meeting place for them. For the worship of our God, the church building is sufficient, but if religion is to you the thing it is to me, the broader religion of universal brotherhood, the church building is not enough."

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Seventy-eight thousand dollars was taken up in the collection at Saint Jude's that morning. Over fifty, though, was in checks, the rest was in cash.

Walter Huff, sitting alone in the back of the church, had watched Ward intently through the service.

Unlike Elinor, Huff had been raised in a Presbyterian household. He had come to feel, to watch with his thief's eyes the offertory piling into the silver plates. But the service told on him. Somewhere down in his violent young heart there crept a sense of shame. It was only when he looked at Ward that his eyes hardened.

This man who had come between him and his girl—this white-handed, surprised, prayer-reading priest, who in a dozen words could couple the people before him to lay a fortune at his feet—Huff ground his teeth together. But something of unwilling admiration was mixed with his scorn. This was temporary headquarters.

Huff made careful notes in his pocket notebook. They included the length and breadth of a temporary building, the residence of the assistant rector, a stove in the temporary structure for cold days, the amount of collection, and the time at which evening service was over on Sunday night.

Dinner Stories

Booth Turkington tells of an old colored man who appeared as a witness before one of our committees.

In the course of his examination these questions were put to the man:

"What is your name?"

"Calhoun Clay, sah."

"Can you sign your name?"

"Sah?"

"I ask if you can write your name?"

"Well, no sah. A neber writes his name. Ah dictates it sah."

It was not even that old Mr. Meenem gave his family a good time, but victory Christmas was different. Even he intended to make a splash.

Pull of good resolutions, therefore, he raised the local theater where "Puss in Boots" was in full swing.

"I want four seats for tonight," he told the box office over the telephone. "Sorry—but we don't reserve seats."

"First served, is our rule."

"But surely I can reserve the seats now—we shan't stand a chance otherwise."

"Oh," said the voice, chuckling. "I'm not so sure about that."

Mr. Meenem promptly lost his temper. "Look here," he stormed. "Send some one to the phone who knows the theater business!"

"This isn't a theater at all," replied the voice. "This is the jail."

Margaret, aged six, had been rude to a little guest, and her mother, after the latter's departure, reproved her. "I've tried so hard to teach you to be polite and kind to others," said the parent, "and in spite of all my efforts, you are rude and naughty."

"What a failure you are, mother!" lisped the rebuked one.

Had Her Excuse.
Bessie was absent from kindergarten one day, and the next day, when the teacher asked her why she was not there, she said: "My grandmother died and I had to go to the program."

Mantolow, May's old business man and hotel keeper, was married at Green Bay to Miss Sarah Ann Dahmke, formerly a nurse at the Maple Crest sanitarium at Whitefish.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

USE YOUR EGG-BEATER

With your egg beater you can make a delicious dish out of that despised but wholesome food—dried fruit. "Stewed prunes" has long been a word of contempt signifying boarding house desserts of the lowest order. But if you will impress the egg beater into service, presto! you have prune whip, a delicious confection which is worthy to grace the table at a company dinner.

The egg beater, too, will improve the breakfast cocoa considerably. Many people cook cocoa or chocolate so that it is either too thick and heavy or otherwise flat through lack of sufficient cocoa foundation. But if you will cook your cocoa, being careful not to let it boil, then just before the boiling point is reached add a pinch of salt and a few drops of vanilla, and beat with the egg beater, you will have a delicious beverage which not even the soda fountain clerk can improve on.

For quick, substantial beverages, the egg beater is indispensable. Try heating up sour milk with the egg beater after it has been thoroughly chilled, and you will have a refreshing, wholesome drink equal to butter-milk. Egg beaten up with milk is a complete lunch in itself. A few spoonfuls of cream whipped into soup will enrich it and quickly transform it into a most palatable cream soup.

For making dressings to accompany salad, meat or fish, you will find the egg beater the best insurance for a successful blending.

For example, anyone can quickly make a perfect mayonnaise with the aid of the egg-beater. Beat the yolk of one egg well, add one teaspoon of salt, one-half teaspoon of powdered mustard, one-half teaspoon of paprika, beating constantly until the mixture thickens. Mix two table-spoons of vinegar with one tablespoon of lemon juice and add in small drops alternately with the oil. Keep on beating until the finished dressing is thick. If you beat well and evenly, and have all the ingredients and utensils cold, you can get a perfect dressing the first time you try it. Another quick and easier dressing has sour cream as a basis. Beat the sour cream with the egg beater, then add one-third the quantity of thick chili sauce, adding it gradually and beating constantly. And a little powdered sugar if the dressing is for fruit salad, and a few drops of lemon juice if the cream is not sufficient.

Laymen Active at Presbyterian Session

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—Commissioners from every section of the country were in attendance here today at the opening session of the 131st general assembly of the Presbyterian church at which a moderator for the coming year will be chosen and world issues considered in determining the church's policy.

Laymen, who for the first time are eligible to hold high offices, are taking a leading part in the assembly and several prominent laymen including William Jennings Bryan were being supported today for moderator, the highest office in the church. Others whose campaigns are being waged were John W. Baer, a Los Angeles banker, and Dr. S. Hall Young, an Alaskan missionary.

Efforts to bring about reconciliation between the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., and the Presbyterian church, U. S. S. A., and the Presbyterian church, U. S. S. A., better known as the northern and southern churches, respectively, will be made.

Woman suffrage, the relations between capital and labor, the inter-church world movement, reclamation and reconstruction work here and abroad, are other matters to be considered.

BRAVE AMERICANS

Portraits of Medal Winners, Made at the Front by Official Portrait Painter of the A. E. F., JOSEPH CUMMINGS CHASE.

Priv. Carl W. Dasch, Headquarters Co., 167th Infantry, 42d Division. During the fighting near Croix Rouge Farm, for the six days from July 24th to August 1st, 1918, Priv. Dasch carried messages through heavy shell fire, between the firing line and rd Battalion Headquarters. Each time on returning from the firing line, he would pick up a severely wounded man and carry him through and out of the barrage to a first-aid station. "During the whole series of engagements," so reads his citation for the Distinguished Service Cross, "Priv. Dasch did not sleep, and taxed his physical endurance to the utmost, at all times setting to his comrades an example of utter disregard of danger and exceptional devotion to duty." Finally he was so badly gassed that he was practically blinded, but had to be given a direct order to report to a first-class station. (Copyright, 1918.)

The Daily Noveltie

TOO MUCH IS ENOUGH.

Carl Bollock was a very sane and sensible man. He was mighty careful about germs and things, because once he had had malignant mumps, first on one side and then on the other; though why they didn't come on both sides at once, he had spent the rest of his life in trying to discover. And those three weeks he had the mumps, the only thing he could slide down his throat was steamed mush and he just hated steamed mush. So strange is our appetite! Every time Carl Bollock sat down to the dinner table, the same dialogue took place between he and his wife. "Dishes and pans sterilized?" "Yes, dear." "Water boiled?" "Yes, love." "Linen disinfected?" "Surely, darling." "Food put in the steam room?" "Certainly, dearest." "Then we may eat in peace," he would reply and set to. Nor was this all. At the least cloud of dust, Carl Bollock would adjust the gas mask he carried, quickly. He always wore magnifying goggles in order to spot a germ and diagnose its genealogy, the minute any of them lit on him. One fatal day, while going through the Latin quarter of the city, Carl Bollock detected a strong zephyr of garlic. "Diab!e!" he cried. "The genius germ of the species Spillopp!" And he quickly adjusted his mask. But, alas! The front windows of the mask were turned around at the back, and being in the middle of a very busy street, before he could get it turned around where he could see, Carl Bollock was struck in the back. "By a huge microbe of the genus motor-truckus!" he said, as he expired in the arms of a peanut man.
